

WHEN BEAUTY REIGNS

Lyrics by Melody Diachun

Looking at your city from a distance
It's not much to the naked eye
Incandescent glow and structure
Nowhere a single sign of life

It's only when I move a little closer
When I roam the streets and read the signs
Get to know your neighbourhoods, your ghettos
That's when I see all the beauty in your design

Real beauty lies within the details
Real beauty lies outside the frame
Real beauty lies in the unspoken
And sometimes beauty lies
When beauty reigns

You like to hide away your feelings
In the back alley down the lane
Under the shelter of your reason
Why won't you let me see your pain?

I want to be there in the morning
Before you put on your face
I want to be there when you wake up
Want to be there just in case you see

Real beauty lies within the details
Real beauty lies outside the frame
Real beauty lies in the unspoken
And sometimes beauty lies
When beauty reigns

Focus within with the open mind of a child
Take a moment to reflect upon your past
